GOLD PRODUCERS TELL PROBLEMS

Lure of Yellow Metal Has Lost Some of Its Glitter
As Costs Mount.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 16.—Gold production in the United States will steadily decline unless the industry is given more support by the federal government, George E. Collins, governor of the Colorado chapter of the American Mining congress, said in an address here today at a conference of gold producers in connection with the twenty-third annual convention of the congress.

CLOSED SHOP ATTACKED.
Delegates waiting today for the third general session tonight were discussing in informal conferences the address of Dr. Charles A. Eaton, editor of Leslie's magazine, last night, in which he attacked the "closed shop" as "one of the outstanding evils in the present industrial situation."

The second of the "evils" Dr. Eaton said, is the "enormous wastefulness of strikes and lockouts."

ANOTHER AGAINST IT.
"The closed shop" principle also was attacked by F. Dupont Smith, attorney, of Hutchinson, Kan., who said the "whole spirit of the Kansas industrial court law" is opposed to it.

The law recognizes collective bargaining, but it does not and will not recognize the "tyranny of the closed shop," he said. "It believes in the freedom of every American workman to work where he will, for a wage satisfactory to himself, without dictation from any autocrat, union labor or otherwise."

The gold problem, taxation and standardization of the mining industry, were discussed in conferences today.

REMEDY NEEDED.
H. N. Lawrence, chairman of the gold conference, told the producers that "unless some remedy is provided for in the McFadden bill is expedited, gold mines of the United States will continue to shut down and the output will rapidly approach the vanishing point."

The report of the national tax commission of the congress, recommending a bipartisan board of ten men to act upon and settle tax cases growing out of the war period was submitted and discussed.

DIFFICULTIES OUTLINED.
DENVER, Colo., Nov. 16.—Gold and the problems of its production under existing conditions were to be discussed at a conference of gold mine owners and operators here today in connection with the twenty-third annual convention of the American Mining congress.

The lure of the yellow metal which has attracted man through the ages has lost some of its glitter for the producers, according to statements already made in addresses at the convention.

COSTS INCREASING.
Gradually increasing cost of operation, coupled with what they term "exorbitant" taxation, is given as the cause for the decline of the gold output in the United States from $22,000,000 to $7,000,000 in five years.

A taxation conference to consider the report of the national tax committee of the organization which recommends creation of a bipartisan board of ten men to pass upon and settle tax cases growing out of the war period, was also scheduled for the morning.

Revision of all existing tax laws pertaining to mining was expected to be discussed, as was a movement to standardize all materials and methods of the industry.

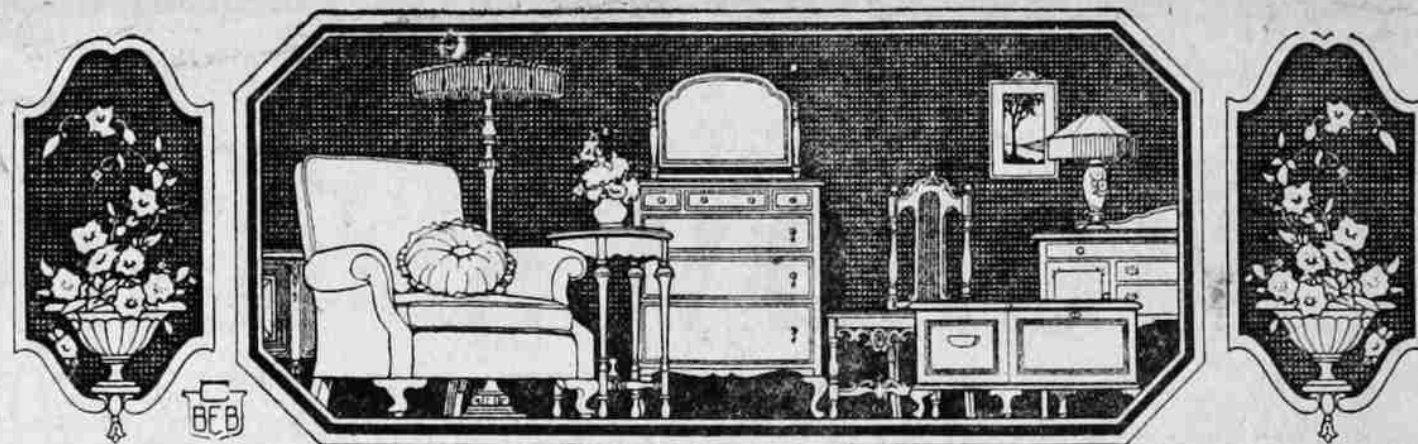

MINERS LEAVE ALASKA.
DENVER, Colo., Nov. 16.—High war time wages in the United States have crippled the gold mining industry of Alaska by attracting miners from the north according to an address by Dr. Milner Roberts, dean of the College of Mines, University of Washington, at Seattle, read to delegates of the twenty-third annual convention of the American Mining congress here today. Dr. Roberts was unable to be present.

In 1915, he said, Alaska produced $16,702,732 in gold, reaching the peak of ten years of steady growth. In 1919, the output, Dr. Roberts declared, fell to $9,000,000, with indications that the production this year will fall below that figure.

WAR CALLS MEN.
"There are several causes for the present situation," he said. "The first was the war. At its outbreak, in 1914, many British miners in Alaska and in the adjacent Yukon territory of Canada, hastened to their country's aid."

"America's entry into the war caused most of our young men to enlist, but still there remained a good proportion of the older and more experienced miners."

"When the demand for men to carry on the war industries in the states became pressing, another outpouring took place. Hearing from the 'outside' of the ever-increasing wages, the miners, being accustomed to adapt themselves to various kinds of work,

HIGH WAGE SCALES.

"Thus the war drew upon the manpower of Alaska, both directly and indirectly. And the wages which drew them have held the men away from the north."

"Alaskan gold producers are unable to pay the scales of wages prevailing along the Pacific coast in the United States and make both ends meet, regardless of the profits."

Another distressing phase of the situation, Dr. Roberts said, was that high costs of operation "have not only lessened actual mining, but have discouraged prospecting for new ground and development of finds already made."

GOLD RESERVE LOW.
DENVER, Colo., Nov. 16.—Gold miners "are engaged in a hand-to-mouth existence" and the output of gold has decreased two-thirds in five years," George E. Collins, governor of the Colorado chapter, told the American Mining congress at last night's session of the twenty-third annual convention which opened here today.

Mr. Collins said the gold output in the last five years has fallen from $22,000,000 to $7,000,000 a year, "and the bottom has not yet been reached."

"The nation's gold reserve," he said, "great as it is, would not begin even to meet the Victory notes and war savings stamps which mature early in 1923."

He added that the relative strength of British exchange, is "it seems clear, based largely on the steady stream of new gold produced from the empire."

In his annual address, President Bulkeley Wells said the congress had been active in supporting the McFadden bill for relief of gold producers.

Map Out New Plans in Shoplifting Campaign

Merchants of Ogden met this morning in conference with Miss M. Stewart of the credit rating bureau of the Ogden Chamber of commerce to decide further steps which will be taken in the present campaign to eliminate shoplifting in Ogden stores. Decision was made to appoint additional store detectives who will be given full police power by J. Hay Ward, police commissioner. This step was taken in order that persons caught in the act of stealing may be immediately placed under arrest without waiting until a complaint has been issued.

It was decided that each merchant will employ one additional detective in addition to the force which is now already working in the campaign. The detectives will be assigned exclusively to the various stores and will work entirely within those institutions. Many other matters were discussed which will be used in the campaign, but which will not be made public.

Revoke Licenses of Two Rooming Houses

Upon recommendation of Captain Johnathan Jones of the police department, the rooming house licenses of the old hotel, 125 Twenty-fifth street, and the Dixie hotel, 246 Grant street, were revoked last night at the regular meeting of the board of city commissioners.

In his recommendation to the board for the revocation of the licenses, Captain Jones stated that the hotels have not been conducted in compliance with city ordinances. He set forth that on October 8, police officers arrested the proprietor of the Dixie hotel on a charge of lewd and lascivious conduct.

On November 6, he stated, the proprietor of the Modern hotel was arrested on a like charge.

Captain Jones complained that the places were now being conducted improperly and the board ordered the licenses immediately revoked. The licenses show that the Dixie hotel was run by Mrs. C. Malone and the Modern by Bert Stultz.

The board also granted licenses to four persons to conduct rooming houses, upon recommendation of J. Ray Ward, police commissioner. Those who were given licenses were Mrs. Joseph W. Gray, 2245 Washington avenue; C. H. Semper, 304 Twenty-fifth street; Domencia Moser, 274 Twenty-fifth street and Mrs. Mary Catlin, 258 Twenty-fifth street.
